
The Bad News:

- 1 in 4 Americans who began using any addictive substance before age 18 developed an addiction.
- 75 percent of all high school students have used addictive substances including tobacco, alcohol, marijuana or cocaine.
- Addicted teens lose friends, isolate themselves, and fail in school.

The Good News:

- Most teens dealing with a drug or alcohol addiction, benefit from leaving their home and entering a safe, and therapeutic environment with others of their same age and gender.
- Hartmann Center provides gender specific drug and alcohol treatment programs in a modern facility.
- Hartmann Center provides support for the entire family through family support groups and education.

Who We Are

The George W. Hartmann Center is a co-ed long term trauma informed, substance use recovery program for teens, ages 13-17. Hartmann provides 24 hour supervised planned living and recovery services in a therapeutic environment. The program offers comprehensive assessments and individualized treatment planning. The Center accepts teens from all counties in Georgia.

Educational Services

Hartmann contracts with Marietta City Schools for educational services for high school students. Children in middle school attend classes at the local Ombudsman Center. Classroom instruction is provided by highly qualified educators employed by Marietta City Schools. Clients will follow the same curriculum as students in the Marietta School System. Credit hours earned while in treatment can be transferred to the client's local school system.

Testimonials

I'm so thankful to the center for giving me a second chance. I was successful in completing the program with help from the staff.

~A.M., Client

I was so happy and blessed that my child graduated from the Hartmann Center. Hartmann is filled with staff that dedicate their time to every child that walks through their doors.

~ C.M., Parent

I have seen such an improvement in my child. I recommend the Hartmann Center to other parents who find themselves in need of such help.
